

“When you are looking for someone who is talented in countless ways to assist you with quality project coordination, you want Stephanie Vargas to assist you. I worked side by side with Stephanie for the better part of a year, when we managed separate quality assurance teams for Wells Fargo internet banking. Both of our products launched successfully. Imagine the personal and professional qualities a team leader needs, to create this kind of success in a high-tech environment with priorities that changed almost daily! Stephanie made it happen by being present every day in every way. Gracefully, she manages many details that are important to weave together with wisdom, patience and vision.”
